

Guy Bullock

Founder and President. Driving force and inspiration for the experienced professionals handling critical day-to-day details of every project under the charge of Bullock Development.

A Graduate of Building Construction/Construction Management from Auburn University College of Architecture Design and Construction (Go Tigers!), Guy is an experienced professional program development manager. His career prior to Bullock Development was the perfect 'classroom' for the work the firm now manages for owners.

Sixteen major cities in the United States, Bermuda and Canada have benefited from real estate construction developments he directed for clients. Offices, medical, retail airport facilities, wireless networks, residential and mixed-use developments have been designed, planned and developed under his direction. Specifically:

- Project, capital budget, and construction management on developments totaling over $140 million
- Millions of square feet of owners' visions realized and developed under his expert, enthusiastic direction
- Expertise in all phases of a development; from site selection and negotiation to contract administration and construction management

Active professional affiliations help him stay current with solutions to the myriad requirements of real estate development as well as project and construction management, from sourcing new opportunities through implementation. His enthusiasm for excellence is the driving force in the ongoing growth of Bullock Development, Inc.; an organization growing intelligently through the top quality work it accomplishes for premiere clients.
